July 7th -

Laurie dear:

Mrs. K. just came over to the studio to inspect the Bauer bust and the beginning of the big sundial. Quite an effort for her, I know, but she did seem to enjoy it so.

She had written you a "real" letter, and was so proud of the accomplishment she just had to show it to me before she mailed it. So we sacrificed the envelope and I enclose the letter herewith in my own.

No time to write more than a note in acknowledgement of your last from the hospital.
Queer, that sick-up of fever!
But I had almost the same thing. The night before I was to sit up in bed I suddenly ~~seemed~~ went off my nut altogether, and Dr. M. has told me since that the nurses worked hours trying to get me quite & my pulse & temp. back to normal! All I remember is a nightmare. Ah, well! You're safely home now & no more set-backs, I hope.
Best o' luck - Id dear - Brundie
