My dear Mrs Byerely:-

A letter from Mr. Martin yesterday says that there was a misunderstanding regarding the price of my print "Polo" which was sold recently at your gallery. He has send me the entry blank on which I gave the prices and I see that the misunderstanding occurred owing to my having corrected an error on the blank. I have sold a number of prints of this picture for $25.00 and that is my price on it. However, as long as this has occurred, and as the print is made and has been sent to you, I will let it go at the price you quoted your customer of $15.00.

Very truly yours,
