

Dec. 19, 1933.

Dr. Clyde Fisher,
The American Museum of Natural History,
New York City.

Dear Dr. Fisher:-

Just a line to tell you that my photographs will be shipped to you the last of this week.

They are at the moment at the Denver Art Museum where they have been shown since December first.

In addition to the Chichen Itza prints I am sending a group of Southwest prints, including a new group of Navajo studies which have not been shown before except in Denver at the moment.

I do hope that you will find the groups to your liking and that they will prove to have sufficient educational value to make you feel thoroughly justified in exhibiting them.

With best wishes for the season, I am
Sincerely yours,