St. Louis, Mo.

My dear Mr. Rogers:-

Do you recall our conversation regarding a possible exhibition of the Yucatan and other photographs when I visited your Museum with Laura Perry last winter? I am wondering if your winter schedule is working out and if you still wish to show these would some time after New Year's be a possible time?

Both my Yucatan and Southwest prints have been shown at the Indian Museum of our New Fine Arts Center this summer, in fact the Yucatan prints are still on the walls.

If plans that Laura Perry and I were making, materialize, I may come to St. Louis in January or February to do some portrait and Architectural work and I could bring the other prints along. And in the meantime there are a number of prints I should like to prepare especially for your show.

I was pleased to see that the wonderful Titian is now your property, and I recall with great pleasure the great development of your Museum over a previous visit not many years ago.

With best wishes for your continued success, I am

Most sincerely
