Dear Miss Gilpin:

For an experimental layout of the "world's best pictures" we are asking outstanding photographers to lend us selections from their files. We would appreciate your sending us any of your photographs which you think would be of interest for such a collection.

We are not limiting the selection to any one type of picture but want to have represented the outstanding examples of all types, as well as pictures which have some unique interest because of the circumstances under which they were taken, the method used in taking them, or their subject. It makes no difference how old the pictures may be or how many times they may have been published.

Would you please look through your work and select a few which you consider your best. We would like to have them as soon as possible and ask you to include all necessary information about them as well as any sidelights which might enhance their interest.

Sincerely Yours,

Roxane Ruhl.
