

Tuesday 30 Nov/37.

WALL OF WINDOWS is one of the numerous striking formations to be seen in Bryce Canyon, a gorgeous chasm of exquisite beauty and grotesque grandeur produced through forces of erosion. Bryce Canyon is in the heart of the Sevier National Forest in Garfield county, Utah, about 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Everything has worked out beyond my most sanguine expectations as soon as I arrived I found I could get a car and spend two days at Bryce and two at Zion. So I was off within an hour of arrival and it has been a gorgeous day.
