Dearest Laura:

I am sorry to still be obliged to dictate personal letters, but as my right hand doesn't work as well as my right leg, I am still sufficiently crippled to prevent me from using a pencil.

I am delighted to hear that there is a chance of our seeing you going or coming from Texas and shall count on your pulling up at the front door whenever the spirit moves you. This is just a line to bid you welcome and to let you know that our friendship is such that no words are necessary and I know how keenly sympathetic you are, and I have felt your understanding during these trying months.

Always affectionately yours,

Ruth
