Dear Miss Gilpin,

I'm sorry I was unable to acknowledge the check you sent for the rugs, but I was sick in bed at the time.

I had expected to talk it over with Mrs Stewart after talking with you over the phone, that after noon - but couldn't.

The little rugs are priceless museum pieces and I had thought the blue one, well worth one hundred dollars and the other seventy five. However, they are in safe keeping now and that makes me very happy. I thought so much of them.

I remember Mr. Brady saying, the blue one was a favorite of the Chief's and belonged to him.

Mr. Brady bought them from him about 1870

Thanking you for your kindness - I am,

Sincerely

Clara E. Brady
