

February 7, 1941.

Mr. Walter Loban,
Northwestern University
Evanston. Ill.

Dear Mr. Loban:-

Your letter regarding my picture "The Water Hole at Acoma" came this morning, and to meet your request I am forwarding a glossy print which I had on hand with this letter. However I must tell you that this will possibly appear in another book on the Southwest, at an early date. I do not believe that either one would conflict with the other.

This picture has been considered the best of my Acoma series, and the fee for its use is $5.00. If this is more than you wish to pay kindly return the print, but as photography is my livelihood, I am not in a position to do otherwise.

I am interested that wish to use this picture particularly in connection with the title of your book. If you have been to Acoma you will know why. I have some Navaho things which would also illustrate this title.

Should you decide to use the picture I would appreciate the customary credit line beneath the picture.

Thanking you for your enquiry, and hoping to hear from you again, I am

Very truly yours,