Dear Miss Gilpin:

Would you be willing to loan us prints of four to eight of your best photographs for an Exhibition of Modern American Photography in black-and-white and color, to be held at The Lakeside Press Galleries for twelve weeks, commencing February 23rd?

This exhibition is to contain examples of the work of the best photographers now working professionally in America. The exhibition will be shown with prints mounted under glass and will be seen by several thousand interested people. A very handsome announcement is going to be sent out to over twenty thousand persons. We hope that you will consent to loan us some of your photographs for showing and that later you may find it possible to come in to view the exhibition.

Would you be willing to mail us the enclosed postal card, telling us whether you are interested or not, and how many prints you will send in! We would appreciate it if the prints you send could be identified by captions written on the back.

With best wishes,

Cordially yours,

Wm. A. Kittredge
