Dear Miss Gilpin--

It's a pleasure to hear from you, and to send you a copy of the issue of Desert in which we reviewed your book.

We enjoyed the Chronicle very much-- there was a beauty and poetic quality about the photos and their interpretation that we have not seen duplicated elsewhere.

If you should produce another work on the Southwest, we hope we shall receive notice of it.

Yours cordially,

The Desert Magazine

To those who come to the Desert with friendliness, it gives friendship; to those who come with courage it gives new strength of character. Those seeking relaxation find release from the world of man-made troubles; for those seeking beauty, the Desert offers nature's rarest artistry. This is the Desert that men and women learn to love.
