Dear Miss Conklin:

We have sent your letter of December 13 to the photographer who took the picture, Miss Laura Gilpin. Perhaps she can give you the information you require.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

I have your book entitled "New Mexico," a guide to the colorful state, published in 1940. I notice, between page 54 and 55, a series of pictures, the first one being "Navaho Madonna" by Laura Gilpin.

Could you please inform me in what other publications this picture appears? Last summer I read a travel book which was of great interest to me at the time, and I recall seeing this picture in it. Now I want to locate that book, and the only clue I have is your "Navaho Madonna." Can you help me?

Sincerely,

Louise W. Conklin
