Dear Don:-

Your letter came yesterday and I was glad to hear from you, but sorry that you and the children have been under the weather.

Please return the portfolio of the round up pictures to me. I regret more than I can say that there is any misunderstanding about it.

I understood Dodie to say that she wished to order the whole set and I described the kind of portfolio I could prepare. I should have written to confirm it before I completed the work.

The Rio Grande book will be finally finished next week, and is scheduled for publication in the spring. Some of the round up pictures will be in, but there is no mention of location, other than west Texas, and, of-course, no names. They just fit in with the story of the life along the river. There have been so many delays and the whole project has taken so much longer than I ever imagined, that I am glad indeed to have it finished.

This brings you my best wishes, and the hope that you are all well,

Very sincerely yours,
