Dear Laura:

Just back from the east and I have the photographs, the text for the leaflet and the list of names to whom the invitations should be sent out. All will be taken care of and I think we are in ample time to do a good job on all the tasks.

As we go along with the plans I will let you know what I have in mind. Am thinking of some tricky frame layout for the entrance to the gallery which would give us a chance to use the title of the show "Follow the Rio Grande", your name, and a little introductory material. Is there any one photograph which you feel keys the entire exhibition? If so, and it is sufficiently dramatic to make up a very large copy, we might be able to use a very striking blow-up on this frame in the entrance to the gallery. It would go along with the title and material I have mentioned. It is not necessary but is just a thought. If you do not have facilities to work it up you might bring the negative along and we can see if we can turn out one here. We have the facilities but at the present not the paper, although I am sure Loyde would be glad to tear a chunk off his roll.

Greetings to you from all.

Sincerely,

MAW:pbs
