Dear Miss Gilpin:

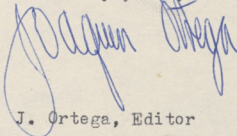

I expect to be in Santa Fe on Saturday, October 21, arriving there about noon. Would it be possible to see you in the early afternoon for a few minutes? If so, will you kindly let me know? I am leaving that same evening for Taos.

We have finally chosen the two photographs to illustrate Collier's article. It was difficult to decide. They are "In the Church at Hernández" and "The White Sands." The former will cover well the full page of the Quarterly, but the latter, which is wider than it is high, will not fit quite so well. The titles are not very exciting. How about titling the Hernández one "Faith"? That marvellous face and that still more marvellous hand convey religious spirituality. How about calling the White Sands one "Sand and Light" or "Pattern on the Sands," or "Black and White" or something like that? I am sure you may have better titles to suggest. We will put the Hernández picture on first page and White Sands on back. When I see you next Saturday I shall give you the 17 pictures we are returning and we will keep these two for use.

Enclosed please find an "Author's File" form which I'll appreciate your filling out and having ready for me when I call.

With all good wishes,

Cordially yours,

J. Ortega, Editor
