TERMS: In consideration of the Agency's acceptance of the color transparencies referred to above, photographer agrees that the said transparencies may be used for all purposes including advertising and trade purposes, and in all countries. Photographer certifies that these transparencies have not been previously sold and that all persons depicted and recognizable in the pictures are covered by model releases which will be sent to agency on request. Agency's commission is 35%. Sales report and check will be sent to photographer at the end of the month in which the customer is billed. Every effort will be made to secure name credit for photographer but agency cannot guarantee the same and does not assume responsibility for errors or omissions by publisher or anyone else. Transparencies remain photographer's property and may be recalled at any time on reasonable notice. The agency does not assume liability for loss or damage from any cause not occurring through its fault. With respect to any other loss or damage, it is agreed that the agency's liability is hereby limited to the amount per transparency for which its insurance plan covers them.
