Dear Miss Gilpin:

I am very sorry that the glass containing one of your transparencies was broken. I hope that the transparency is recoverable. Please find out what you can do with it and if we have ruined it for you let us know how much the loss is and we will try to pay you for it.

We are always interested in anything that you would care to submit to us. While we have closed up our Indian features for this year, we are always interested in seeing material for issues of next year. We have, of course, had considerable material on Wupatki. However, if you are ever over this way bring anything along that you might like to let us see. We are so happy to consider any of your fine pictures.

Please check your list to determine how many transparencies we should have. It is possible that we have made a mistake although we try very carefully not to.

Thank you for writing to us.

Sincerely,

Raymond Carlson
