

17 December 1953

It was a wonderful experience meeting you, Miss Gilpin, and especially because it was in the setting that you're so terrifically depicted.

We looked around for you at the roller the next day, but apparently you had decided to go on to Red Rocks. Mitch had some business commitments so we had to leave at noon.

A roll of our Kodachrome was lost by either Eastman or the post office and naturally it was the roll we were most anxious to have.

Best wishes to you for a wonderful 1954!

Kindest regards
Jeri Mitchell
