Dear Miss Gilpin:

Please do not feel distressed in any way for the accidents which occurred during the showing of your photographs at our meeting last week. Truly they in no way marred the really magnificent experience of viewing these superbly done slides. Everyone was deeply moved; they came up to me in great numbers all through Friday thanking me for bringing you and saying again and again how much they had enjoyed it. I understand, of course, how much more sensitive you are than an audience to less than perfection, but I say with sincerity that the repetition only gave us a chance to examine at greater leisure those slides which were of such great beauty. I hope you will accept this assurance from me that the evening was a complete success, and that we are grateful to you for being our guest.

Yours sincerely,

Patricia Paylore
