

July 27,
1956.

The Dexter Press,
West Nyack, N.Y.

Dear Sirs:-

When the finished postcards for the Museum of Navajo Ceremonial Art arrived, my reaction was one of pleasure over the fine reproductions. It was not until these extra copies arrived day before yesterday, that I caught a typographical error. The spelling of "Santa Fe". I have checked the copy sent in to you to make sure that the error was not on this end.

In view of the fact that I requested a proof of this caption material at the time of placing the order, and then not receiving it, wrote twice requesting it and not even receiving an answer to my letters, I feel justified in registering a complaint. Sorry, and I hope it won't happen again.

Very truly yours,