Ref: Your letter of August 2nd

Dear Miss Gilpin:

We were very sorry to learn of the unfortunate experience you have had with your Weston Master III exposure meter. Weston exposure meters are very carefully checked before shipment is made and from the information given in your letter we are inclined to believe your meter did not arrive in satisfactory condition after previous repairs, because of damage in transit.

Your recent inquiry did not give us the necessary reference number covering the most recent repair and we therefore cannot readily identify the order. However, our turnover on exposure meters is now in approximately one week and we assume your meter has been returned to you. If it has not been received, please advise the repair order number and we shall investigate further.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention and if we can be of further assistance, please let us know.

Very truly yours,

J. A. Furey
