Dear Miss Gilpin:

We are planning to publish a book of photographs on the work of Frank Lloyd Wright with an introduction by Vincent Scully. Mr. Scully has designated in the book for purposes of comparison, a photograph of the Temple of the Two Lintels at Chichen Itza, Yucatan. We should like to ask your assistance in providing a suitable photograph. One of the views in your book is, I believe, like this:

Do you have a view like this?:

If you do not have one like the second, which is preferable, we would appreciate your permission to reproduce the first. We would pay the usual book rate fee of ten dollars ($10) for use of the photograph in all printings and editions of the book. Full photographic credit will be given.

We would like to work from a clear glossy 8" x 10" print, but if this is inconvenient may we borrow the negative, or may we have the largest clear convenient print.

Hoping we may have your cooperation and a reply as soon as possible,

Sincerely,

William Alex
