My dear Laura:

I should have dropped you a line before this, but I have been literally up to my neck getting all the negatives made on the trip developed and catalogued. I think I have some really good things.

It was marvelous seeing you and we appreciated the chance to visit with you and see your work. I'm going to write you a good long personal letter soon, but I am simply dictating this now to let you know we've not forgotten you.

Gerry and I send you our most affectionate greetings. Virginia wants to know when you are coming out here again.

Lots of love from us all,
