RE: the forthcoming THE BOOK OF THE DANCE by Agnes de Mille being prepared by Artists and Writers Press, Inc. (subsidiary) being published by Golden Press, Inc. (affiliate)

Dear Miss Gilpin:

Would you be able to send us the following material for possible publication in the above title:

Black and white photograph of the Corn Dance at Cochiti by Quah Ah, in the collection of Mrs. Charles Dietrich, pictured in the attached photostat, originally reproduced in color on page 208 of The American Indian.

Please let us know when you send the photographs how much you expect to be paid for non exclusive world reproduction rights, the credit line you would like us to use and whether or not you require us to return black and white photographs after we have finished with them. If we should decide to use any of the pictures you send us, we will be sure to notify you requesting formal permission for publication as well as verifying the terms under which your consent has been granted.

We will be grateful for whatever pictures you can send us and hope that if you can not supply them yourself that you will be able to suggest another source. We will look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Sincerely yours,
