Dear Ms. Gilpin:

On page 23 of the January 1964 issue of New Mexico magazine there is an article written by Mrs. Tom Charles and a small girl's photograph imitating the expression on the Alaskan mask, made of rare driftwood, the photograph credited to you.

Would it be possible for the Illinois Education magazine to secure second reproduction rights for this photograph? They print a magazine for teachers and superintendents of elementary pupils in Illinois and the subscription list is quite small.

Do we need permission from the New Mexico Museum to print this photograph, also?

We would appreciate your letter of permission and your bill, at your earliest convenience. Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Cordially,

Myrtle La Force
