Dear Mrs. Gilpin:

Enclosed is the summer issue of Western Review, which carries some of the photographs which you so kindly sent us. They're a big asset to the book. I'm sure the South-western feel of the cover (we wanted it in white, but the printer double-crossed us) will help to sell the issue. The lovely one on p. 40 has something eighteenth-centuryish about it, don't you think, even though classicism is the last thing you'd expect to find in New Mexico.

Your other photos have been packed and, I think, mailed.

Many thanks for your kindness in letting us use the photos. We're most grateful.

Sincerely,

Irma Saffold, Asso. Ed.
