Dear Mitch:

Thanks for your letter. In the same mail I received a letter from Mr. Wardlaw. He agrees to the compromise on the royalties so I feel much better about that.

But the delays are concerning me now and I do hope that there will be no doubt about fall publication, but it sounds as though nothing will get started for another two or three months. I am of course, so sorry to hear that Mrs. Wardlaw has been so ill, and I hope that she is now well on the mend.

I have just written to Mr. Wardlaw telling him that I want to do other two of the sacred mountains. I need to make two flights because of time of day, chiefly. It is snowing right now at Flagstaff of the San Franciscos will have a good cover. I don't know about Mt. Taylor, but I hope we will get some of this storm which we need so badly.

Since you were here and I have been thinking in terms of an exhibition, my original picture of the sacred mountain of the north may be the best one to use. It is a better photograph, and is the one that gave me the idea of doing the air shots. This one isn't from the air but from an elevation and looks like a far shot. I will make some proofs to-morrow and send you one. I have just told Mr. Wardlaw that I want to do these over. The point now is when. Now that I know that he is not coming here for some weeks, I want to go immediately to Phoenix to see this Dr. I told you about. My doctor has done further inquiry as finds only the highest recommendation for him. I am writing at once for an appointment and will try to go over right after the first. A few things to clean up here first. I may be better fit to do these pictures after I see this doctor than I am now, but I hope I can have a little time on this. I think it would take a derrick to get me into a plane right now! I would want to make two flights to get the right time of day on each mountain.

Mr. Wardlaw says he is seeing you this week, and I hope my letter reaches him before he leaves Austin.

My best to all,
