Dear Mr. McNitt:-

To receive such a wonderful letter from you, both surprised and delighted me. I have thoroughly enjoyed and admired your books, and as I am sure you found in my text, so much information in your Indian Traders which so nicely fit with my brief tale of these unique individuals.

I feel honored indeed to have you rank me as you have done. In trying to give a picture of the whole, my text seems scanty, but I did try very hard to have all facts accurate, and then let the pictures give the feel of the people. Photography as I see it, is a language itself, a visual language which I have used to compliment writing. I am pleased beyond words if you have found this has happened.

Please, when you come next to Santa Fe, do let me know. I have long wanted to meet you, and I am sure we will find many things of common interest. And I look forward to whatever comes next from your fluent pen.

Again with my most sincere thanks,

Cordially
