Dear Miss Gilpin,

I am writing to you this morning at the suggestion of Mary Carroll Nelson.

Dillon Press is in the process of publishing a biography of Maria Martinez. This is one title in a series of American Indian biographies, hopefully for use in upper elementary schools. The project was started with the thought that there is too little knowledge of American Indians, and too little material available for the schools.

We are looking for photographs for the book. Would you, Miss Gilpin, be kind enough to let me know whether or not you have any photographs of Maria Martinez that might be appropriate and, if so, might we be allowed to use them? They would be safely returned and also a credit line given in the book.

If you think this is possible, I will be happy to furnish more details with reference to the kind of photographs we would like to use. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Gerald R. Dillon
