Mr. Ned Hatathli,
Navaho Community College,
Many Farms
Arizona.

Dear Ned:-

Here is news clipping to tell you of the death of my long time friend whom you knew. She suffered greatly during the last years of her life, so for her it is a blessing. Thinking of what I could do as some sort of a memorial to her, I thought of the College and just what could be done with a modest sum of money. As she was a great reader and lover of books herself, I think that books for the College library would be what would please her the most. Her years as a nurse at Red Rock meant more to her than any work she ever did, and I know you know how closely we worked together to produce my book.

Many friends of both of ours have been sending me checks for this purpose. There are still two or three people whom I have not yet heard from, but I want to send this in to you now and when more comes it will follow. I am going to have a small bookplate made to go in each book. If I can help in any in the purchase of these, I will do so gladly. I do not know what you have nor what you need.

Before long I shall be coming over, first to see many old friends, and then to see about another book I want to do. I think that the financial backing for this is going to materialize and I want to get at it just as soon as possible.

I think of you often and read with pleasure of the way the College is progressing. I only wish I were in a financial position to be of more help to you, and I do hope that this lot of books will be of use to the students.

This brings my best wishes to all of you,

Most sincerely
