Dear Ms. Gilpin,

I am curator of history at the Wichita Falls Museum and Art Center in Wichita Falls, Texas. Our history program consists of changing exhibits designed and created by our staff. Our current exhibit under construction is on the Navajo Indians from the Long Walk of 1864 to the present.

With the help of the National Archives we have been able to obtain numerous historical photographs, and with the help of Troy Kennedy at Red Rock we have obtained a wagon, loom, a hogan, and furnishings. However, we are still in need of photographs of the Navajo people and their habitat. To this end, I would like to inquire as to what procedure we might go through to obtain print copies of several of the pictures in your book, The Enduring Navajo.

I feel that these photographs would greatly enhance our exhibit and a list of the ones we are specifically interested in is enclosed.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Larry Francell
Curator of History
