Dear Ms. Gilpin:

I wish to thank you for your hospitality to Pam and me when we dropped in for a visit last March. At that time, I mentioned to you that I was planning a University of Denver "interim course" which will be in residence at the College of Santa Fe this December. The course is entitled "Southwestern Cultures in Historical Perspective," and will include about 25 students.

The class is fast becoming a reality. You said that you might be willing to meet and talk to our students, and I would now like to ask you if you would do so on Tuesday morning, December 11. Our students could come to your house, and I think a good topic might be the Navajos and their relation to the Pueblos (something of an ancient feud, perhaps)? If for any reason it would be preferable to you, we could meet in a classroom at the College of Santa Fe rather than in your home. We can afford a small token honorarium, say $50.00, as we are on a tight budget. I think it would be extremely valuable for our students to hear you and have a chance to ask questions.

If the morning of the 11th is not convenient for you, we could no doubt rearrange our schedule. I look forward to seeing you again.

Sincerely,

J. Donald Hughes
