Dear Miss Gilpin:

Please forgive me for taking so long to acknowledge the two beautiful photographs you sent us. They arrived quite in time, and we are most happy to be able to include them in our book (with credit line as indicated on the backs of the photographs), the Unger-Johnson: LAND OF PROGRESS. I would have written you immediately since you were so prompt in responding to my request, but a series of unforeseeable last-minute editorial changes connected with the project have literally kept me so busy that I have only now come up for air.

Again, many thanks for allowing us to use the photographs. They will be returned immediately the printer has completed his work with them. I am, as I promised, obtaining clearance also from the University of Texas Press in an official way, though they have already indicated willingness to grant the necessary permission.

Yours sincerely,

Wally Aaron
