Dear Miss Gilpin:

Thank you for returning the post card, belong to the Maxwell Museum of Anthropology, showing your photograph "Shepherds of the Desert."

It was good news to learn that you still have the negative and others from this same region.

I hope we can work something out to gain permission to use your photograph. As you must know, most research projects are never funded generously enough; especially for such an unexpected development as this one.

Obtaining permission from the University of Texas Press should merely be a formality, since our use of the photograph will be in a non-profit scientific report. Should you also grant us your permission, the photograph should thus be identified: (Photo courtesy of Laura Gilpin, with permission of the University of Texas Press).

The next time I am in Santa Fe, I would like very much to discuss this further in person. For sometime I have wanted to obtain an autographed copy of your book "The Enduring Navaho" and this will allow me to do so.

Again, thank you.

Sincerely,

Albert E. Ward
