Sorry for the long silence. My husband died in February after a lengthy, arduous battle with leukemia, and I have been in a tailspin.

The exhibit comes down at the University of Rhode Island June 2 and moves to PhotoGraphics Workshop, New Canaan, CT, June 28 (through July 25). After the opening at Lyman Allyn Museum, New London, it was in Hartford at the AEtna Life and Casualty Building. I haven't booked the rest of the tour yet but have had lots of requests from galleries. If you have anywhere special you'd like to see the show placed, have the appropriate personnel write me, and we'll see how it fits with other dates.

It would be very helpful to have a reproduction print of every image in the show for publicity purposes. Many of you sent these with your exhibition prints, but several did not. Please, if you have an extra or can print one up quickly (small format, unmounted), send to me soon.

The Connecticut Commission on the Arts had a cutback and decided not to fund our catalogue--unfortunate. When I get a little steam back, I'll pursue the matter further.

Will try to be in touch sooner next time re: schedule.

Deep thanks to those of you who wrote or helped in other ways when Harvey died.

Best,

Jayne
