Dear Mr. Reynolds;

Many very too-busy days have delayed me in thanking you for sending me the solution of potassium chloroplatinate. I keep hoping every day that I can make my first platinum print, but things have been incredibly busy for me. However, I won't let it be very much longer.

Would you want to consider trading prints with me when I have platinum good enough to send? I would love to have one of your kallitype prints. It would be fun to have the two together. I hope that you will be coming this way again before too long, and we can have further talks on photography. This brings my best wishes, and again, so many thanks.

Most sincerely,

Laura Gilpin
