

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

Washington, D.C. 20560

U.S.A.
Handbook of North American Indians
CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF MAN

June 15, 1976

Ms. Laura Gilpin
409 Camino del Monte Sol
Santa Fe, New Mexico

Dear Ms. Gilpin:

I wrote to you about a month and a half ago, asking if you would be willing to let us publish any of your photographs in the Handbook of North American Indians. At that time, I was writing only a general request, and thus did not specify which photographs we were most interested in.

As I am now getting closer to completion on the selection of illustrations for the Navajo section of our publication, and as I have not received a negative response from you, I am now writing with more specific requests. Rather than list these, I am enclosing Xerox copies of photos taken from The Enduring Navajo. Where I have stapled several together, it is to indicate that any one of a set could be used.

I am including so many 'requests' merely to indicate which ones would be most suitable, by subject matter and treatment, to go with our various Navajo articles. I would not expect that you would want to submit more than five or ten at most. And of course we would be delighted with even one. Also, although I am trying to complete arrangements for photos as soon as possible, there is no immediate urgency in having the prints.

I look forward to hearing from you. (Please feel free to call me collect at 202-381-5091.) Thank you.

Sincerely,

Laura Greenberg
Laura Greenberg
Pictures Contractor

Enclosure

June 18, 1976

Enclosures:

Our Xerox machine is broken. Perhaps it would be best if I just listed the photographs by page number in The Enduring Navajo:

- or { p 28 woman with lambs and baby
- p 79 Watching her grandchild
- p 53-4 hogan near Shiprock
- p 68 interior of hogan
- p 84 trading post
- p 214 medicine man
- p 218 Red Rock warehouse
- or { p 164 Tribal Council (top of page)
- p 164 (bottom) Manuelito Begay rises to discuss...
- or { p 11 Sacred Mountain of the East
- p 17 Sacred Mountain of the North
- p 218 Mountainway

Thank you.

Laura Greenberg
Pictures Contractor.