Dear Ms. Gilpin:

Thank you for your reply to my inquiry about the Acoma picture. I have a problem with the amount for reproduction rights and let me lay it out for you and if nothing can be arranged I certainly understand.

I've a budget from T.Y. Crowell of $500 for some 30-35 pictures for the anthology, volume I. That would mean $50 is too big a slice for me to afford. But I really would like the photo because most of my pictures are old historical ones which though they convey the factual matter don't convey the breadth of the country, don't have that feel for the land the first whitemen found opening up before their eyes. Can we make some arrangement where I will pay half on publication and half later on? Or is there some other arrangement which might be suitable?

I feel bad having to poormouth like this, and if any other arrangement is unacceptable to you of course I completely understand.

Sincerely yours,
