Dear Mr. Harbaugh;

Recently, with all the projects and exhibitions that have been due to be completed for fall we have realized again that Laura is doing much too much and is getting quite worn out. Everyone here has been concerned about her health and the fact that orders weigh very heavily upon her. She mentioned several times that a few years ago she promised you a show plus prints to sell in your gallery. She has been trying to catch up on back orders, many of which go beyond two years ago from her Retrospective here. She still wants to do this, but it is not possible for her to fill orders of prints that you sell from out of her book. She told me that you have sold 13 prints which she must make, and as much as she would like to do them, she simply can't work that way anymore. I hope you understand this situation, but with all the other things she has promised and wants to do from so long ago, plus a book on Canyon de Chelly to finish, we are all trying to clear work out of the way so she can do what she enjoys and not feel pressured. We would be very glad for you to come and choose from the large selection of already mounted prints and take things on consignment for your gallery. Please let us know about this and thank you for your understanding.

Sincerely,

Sina Brush-Morales
