Dear Mrs. Spiritus;

After speaking with you today, I briefly spoke with Laura regarding the previously planned exhibition at your gallery in the fall. I know that you want to be able to plan ahead as much as possible. She feels at this point, that she cannot make any more definite commitments as she had hoped before to do. She has several shows that she must do work for now, and as it stands it is going to be quite an undertaking to fill these. I am sorry that we can not make any plans for a show with you right now, but it seems the only thing to be done. She landed in the hospital recently because of exhaustion in part, and now I think has realized that all has to slow down a bit.

She was very glad to know that you have sold some prints, and of course, when you are paid for the platinum's, I know you will forward a check to her. Meanwhile, if you could send her payment for the silverprints that would close your account with her until we can make new arrangements with you. Thank you very much for your interest and help with Miss Gilpin's prints.

Sincerely,

Sina Brush-Morales
