Dear Laura Gilpin,

Here's some copies of the exhibition catalog. I hope you like them.

Everything is going very well with the show. It just finished up its stay at Penn State University. The response has been impressive. For the next couple of months it will go to some other places around Pennsylvania and the, by mid summer, it will start traveling nationally. Currently we are contacting the curators at museums and university galleries around the country asking if they are interested in carrying the show. Recently I talked to the photography curators at the Dallas Museum of fine Arts and Houston Museum of fine Arts and they both have expressed interest in the show. We will be contacting other places soon and hope to have a tentative agenda by the end of spring.

By the way, all the pieces in the show are in perfect condition and we have an excellent insurance policy covering the show.

Thank you for your continued co-operation and support of this project,

Jim Baker
