Dear Ms. Gilpin:

By now you've probably received my letter concerning your photographic collection. As fate would have it, your letter of 13 October 1978 arrived only minutes after I mailed mine, so I felt I'd better write another one immediately.

I'm disappointed that your collection will go to Navajo Community College rather than here, but at the same time I do understand your position and in the long run I'm sure they can provide better security than we can.

Now I'm wondering if the eight prints from The Enduring Navaho which are already here at the museum are, in fact, here with your knowledge and if it is your wish that they remain here. Could you please let me know your thoughts on this matter?

Sincerely,

Russell P. Hartman
