Dear Miss Laura Gilpin:

I am very pleased that we will soon have a photograph of a Navajo weaver which you took at Red Rock in 1933 displayed with rugs which hang in our Technical Library in the National Security and Resource Study Center. It was most gracious of you to permit us to make an enlargement from your original negative.

As you may be aware, these rugs once belonged to the Los Alamos Ranch School which was also the object of your camera lens many years ago. It seems entirely fitting that this association be extended in this manner. There is no other photographer of the Southwest whose work we would rather see complement these rugs.

Thank you again for your fine gesture.

Sincerely,

Harold M. Agnew
Director
