Mr. Steve Rice,
University of Texas Press,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Steve:-

For the past two weeks I have been meaning to get off a letter to you. So far I have never gotten my own order on books. I believe that I wrote to Mrs. Morris a long time ago, that in addition to my free ten, I would need an additional twenty copies. Somehow this got lost in the shuffle. My obligations are very great on this book, and now I find I need twenty five copies. Luciele Webb loaned me 15, and the Villagra one. I will return these when my shipment of twenty five comes in. If these could come in two packages, one of fifteen and one ten it would help me in delivering them. These will have to be charged to my account, please.

How has everything gone since I saw you in Austin? Perhaps to-days mail will bring some news. It seems a long time since I was in Austin, but after all it is only a matter of barely three weeks. I do hope that the books is still going well. I am anxious for news from the east. I shall be writing to Dave either later today or tomorrow about a few special review copies.

My very best wishes to you for a Happy and prosperous New Year,

Most sincerely
