

St Patric's Day

Dear Frank:-

First, it was good of you to answer my note, and I am so glad that your children are such a comfort to you. I know that will help a great deal.

Yesterday, I had a call from William Webb. I think I told you about him. In addition to his own photography, and other interests, he is a salesman for the University of Michigan Press. A very able and intelligent man. He reported that he sees The Enduring Navaho everywhere he goes and he said nice things about. He tried to get The Michigan Press to take it some years ago. It was my fault that nothing came of that for I did have a letter from them, but the book just wasn't ready to be seen and I never sent it in. He writes to book reviews for the Monterey Peninsula Herald and he wants to review it for us. Asked if you would send him a review copy please. He wanted to see my scrap book, and said that there should be reviews in the San Francisco Chronicle, the Los Angeles Times, and Saturday Review and he would see about that. He is genuinely working for us. He is the man who helped locate the negatives by Vroman which he printed and Ward Ritchie printed. A beautiful little book. He knows the Southwest very well, and I am more than pleased by his response to my efforts. I hope you two can meet sometime. You would like him, I know. He has been watching your publications and spoke highly of them. A review copy in his hands will be most worth while.

My regards to one and all of you,

Hastily
