Dear Mr. Gilbert:

Addison-Wesley is now preparing another English textbook in our VOICES OF MAN series. In this series we are combining contemporary literature with reproductions of art masterpieces and photography.

In one of the books we would like very much to reproduce two photographs from THE ENDURING NAVAJO by Laura Gilpin. One photograph is of a Navajo family before the American flag, and appears on the plate before page 250. The other is of a great-grandmother with a child on the plate after page 78.

We would like to clear world rights in the English language for all editions and revisions of our textbook. If you are able to grant us this permission, could you kindly send us 8 x 10 black and white prints of the photographs. If you are unable to do so, could you please direct us to the proper source?

Thank you for any assistance you may be able to give us.

Sincerely,

(Miss) Deborah Daymon

Art Editor
