Dear Laura,

The additional material on the Rio Grande book has arrived. I wrote you after the first two volumes came in and Mr. Duell wrote you after the last four volumes of manuscript had arrived. We are still going over the material and are being more and more impressed with it.

The ideas that I have about the layout of the book are very definite, the same as yours. It is my plan to probably use the pictures as they appear in the manuscript, no bleeds, and the text pertaining to these pictures running on the same page or on the opposite page where the text is longer than the space allows when running on the same page with the photographs. There, undoubtedly, will be some substitutions which you may wish to make through the additions of material such as the ones mentioned in your letter of September 9.

I hope that we can produce the book without serious cutting of the material as it stands up so well in the present presentation.

Sincerely,

Walter L. Goodwin, Jr.
