Dear Charles and Cap:-

Just a line to tell you that by the end of this coming week I will ship in to you a made up dummy with proof prints to scale, and two portfolios of final prints, some 40 odd, of these. All of this will give you the plan of the book and will enable you to make the necessary decisions that must be made now. My thoughts seem to have reverted to letter press. I also think of Lewis White. Is he still in the printing business? I have heard what fine work he has done but have not seen it. As I am a student of his father's, and knew him many years ago, he might be interested in taking on this job.

I letter with full details of things to discuss will come with the prints and dummy. This just to inform you that it will be along in a few days.

My thanks to you for the amusing Christmas book. And, of course my very best wishes for this year of 1954 which I hope will be a red letter year for me.

Sincerely

Jan. 10

Mr. Charles H. Dewell
