There were no blue print proofs of the pictures with the galley's. I presume that these will follow. Because of the great importance on absolute accuracy I must see page proofs before this goes to press.

I have just re-read the many letters I have written in to you or Mr. Freese since last December and I find many questions which I have never received an answer. What have you been able to find for binding? What about the design for the binding cover?

These two are of importance at the moment, the rest are now past.

It is obvious that this book will also miss the Christmas market unless it is out by November first to tenth, and I don't see how this is possible now. I am pretty upset over this, for you will have had a whole year in a few weeks. Proper timing is very important. I expressed myself once and have not bothered you with incessant demands for I felt you would get this out in time without question, for the schedule was made out long ago.

Please send any further proofs air mail as it took six days for these to reach me as fourth class matter.

Trusting that the corrections can be quickly made and that all will move swiftly from here on, I am

Very truly yours,
