Dear Miss Ford:-

The last package of material has come, but the maps and calendar wheel are still missing. One other thing which I did not want to bother you about was the second ring binder. It now occurs to me that perhaps that is where the maps are. I have been through everything here again and I am quite sure that they have never come back. It really doesn't matter too much. I can copy those pages out the book. It is easier and better to do the job from the originals, but I do not want to put you to a lot of bother. You may come across them some time. Only one ring binder came back with all the maps, pages in it. The photographs were packed in a box. If you locate the binder, I have a hunch that that is where the drawings are. This might have gotten lost in your move. I can imagine what a chore that must have been, so please don't go to a lot of effort to hunt for it. It isn't worth it, and the most important part is here.

I shall be writing to Mr. Freese in a day or two. I am very much pleased over the showing of the Yucatan book on the statement. I wonder how he feels about it.

With many thanks for all your trouble, I am

Sincerely yours,
